Editor's Notes

The other day I did a double-take as I was browsing through a local ad paper. The headlines for one advertisement read: AT LAST! THE NEW 78'S ARE HERE! It took me a few moments to realize they were talking about new cars, not a revival of a favorite type of phonograph record.

The Record Collector's Pocket Index is about ready for mailing and I am quite pleased with them. The printer's bill was less than quoted, so we are able to reduce the price by 25¢. Those who ordered in advance of publication will be receiving a similar refund.

Did you see the ads for "The 100 Greatest Recordings of All Time" offered by the Franklin Mint? In honor of the 100th anniversary of recorded sound they have chosen to reissue several masterpieces of great music for a mere $9.75 each (plus tax and $1.75 handling costs)! Hence, the entire set will cost well over a thousand dollars. I am sure all collectors could make this sum go much farther than this collection of a hundred vinyl discs.

Best wishes to all for the holiday season.

GREAT SCOTT:
(Henri, That Is)

by Bob Stone

American basses of star quality, it seems, have always been in short supply.

Myron Whitney, the earliest American bass to achieve fame, sang oratorio (on the authority of David Bispham) "in the grand manner." Also of the 19th century was Frank Nash, who as Franco Novara sang Mephistopheles in the production of Faust which marked the grand opening of the Metropolitan Opera on October 22, 1883; but whether Nash was a product of the United States or the British Commonwealth remains a mystery, at least to me.

David Bispham, a model of natural vocal equipment plus sound training, lasted little over a decade on the operatic big time, due, I am convinced, to his constant abuse of a bass timbre in such high baritone roles as Telramund, Kurvenal, Iago and Falstaff. Robert Blass, who sang the big Wagnerian bass roles at the Metropolitan during the 1900-1910 decade, was a dependable rather than a brilliant performer. And Putnam Griswold's premature death at thirty-eight cut short a promising career in the Wagner repertory.

Without resorting to reference books, I can recall such names as Arthur Middleton, Herbert Witherspoon, Allen Hinckley, Edward Lankow, William Wade Hinshaw and Basil Ruysdael, of whom none (so far as I know) has been perpetuated in long-playing form, although Middleton merits more than passing attention from discriminating record collectors. More recently, Jerome Hines has enjoyed a long and useful Metropolitan career without, however, challenging the memory of the greatest of his predecessors.

Of all American basses, it seems to me that Henri Scott possessed the finest natural vocal endowment. His was a powerfully resonant voice, deep and full. True, no such distinctive vocal "personality"---as, for instance, that of Feodor Chaliapin---emerges from his recordings; but from the standpoint of true bass quality (and quantity), Chaliapin was a mere blusterer by comparison.

Born at Coatesworth, Pennsylvania, in 1876, Scott first distinguished himself as an athlete by playing a lusty oar as a member of the University of Pennsylvania crew. He studied voice with Oscar Saenger in New York; his earliest engagements, beginning around the turn of the century, were confined to recital work. His first big opportunity came in 1908 when he toured the country as assisting artist to Caruso. This may have led to his engagement by Oscar Hammerstein for the final season of the Manhattan Opera in 1909-10. According to Henry C. Lahee in his Grand Opera Singers of Today, Scott proved to be "one of the operatic 'finds' of Hammerstein" and "undoubtedly the first entirely American-trained singer to achieve success in one of the principal companies of the United States."

Scott sang at the Teatro Adriano in Rome during 1910-11, then joined the Chicago Opera Company. In his three seasons there, he sang six, nine and thirteen roles respectively, and would probably have remained with the company indefinitely but for a fire which damaged the house so badly that it did not reopen until the fall of 1915, at a time when Scott was making his Metropolitan Opera debut as Hunding. "An admirable impersonation," wrote Richard Aldrich in the Times, "in its implied ferocity, and sung with a powerful voice in excellent style."

Scott sang at the Metropolitan until 1919, but was given very little opportunity to distinguish himself. One of his more bizarre assignments

4. (date unknown) was as Mephistopheles in an al fresco performance of Faust at Ebbets Field, whether under the auspices of the Metropolitan was not revealed by Julian Morton Moses, to whom we are indebted for this intriguing snippet of information in his Collectors' Guide to American Recordings.

After 1919 Scott's activities were confined to the concert stage and the oratorio circuit. He died in Hagerstown, Maryland, in 1942 at the age of sixty-six.

Scott made cylinders in 1910 for Edison and U.S. Everlasting, discs for Columbia in 1913-16, and Diamond Discs for Edison in 1918-22.

I know Scott's voice largely through his Columbia recordings, and can heartily recommend them to those who, like myself, find particular pleasure in listening to those voices which most effectively sound the lowermost notes of the bass clef.

The Edison National Historic Site has recently made available a 2-record set which every reader of the GRAPHIC is advised to obtain. Each lp side is devoted to a specific category (classical, jazz, spoken word and popular); over half of the 25 selections are from Diamond Discs that were never released. At $7.50 plus 50¢ postage the album set is a bargain. Copies may be ordered from the Edison National Historic Site, Main Street and Lakeside Avenue, West Orange, N.J. 07052. Additional items of interest are also available. Please mention the GRAPHIC when you write.

Victor 8-inch Records
(Conclusion)

by Martin Bryan

Responses to the first installment in the last issue were quite favorable. One collector disagreed with my statement that "they usually play surprisingly well even when worn." Perhaps this was an overstatement, though actually I was comparing them to the older 7-inch Victor discs rather than the superior 10-inch versions.

Remember that the (*) following the artist identification indicates it was available in 8-inch form only. No asterisk means the selection was issued in both 8- and 10-inch versions.

(to be continued)

With this issue, we are back to running on all six cylinders as we have ALL release numbers accounted for up to 1064....(actually up through 1075). This does NOT include, of course, the many VARIATIONS which perhaps will never be known. Only YOU can help by checking the NMLs in your collection. Also missing is ANY information on the NEW PHONIC label which we believe was an extension of the NML label. Somebody must have at least one example of this. And if any of you truly dedicated souls would like to match up any untraced master numbers (beginning with issue 15), this would be greatly appreciated. So....on with the additions.

1050 Master Melody Makers (no visible matrix)

ROSES OF PICARDY

Manhattan Musicians (5276-2)

SITTIN' IN A CORNER

NOTE: This is IDENTICAL to NML 1058 and the one known master will be traced later in this issue.

1053 Music Lovers Dance Orchestra (possibly same as 1061A)

SLEEP

N.M.L. Dance Orchestra (possibly same as 1043B)

DREAMY MELODY

1056 National Hawaiian Players (no visible matrix)

LA PALOMA

National Hawaiian Players (no visible matrix)

CIRIBIRIBIN

NOTE: Both sides appear to be a duplication of 1047

Bill Bryant has discovered yet another example of NML release numbers turning up on other labels. This one is on Triangle 11241. The A side is PINAFORE (LL 211-1)(1028A) by Stellar Mixed Quartet. B side is TROVATORE - ANVIL CHORUS (LL 205-3)(1029A) by Stellar Male Quartet. Both sides are identical to the NML sides noted.

DANCE SERIES NO. 1 (H)

(Label Design: Red Shield on Gold Background)

1057 through 1064

1057 N.M.L. Dance Orchestra (5350-2)

ARCADY

Music Lovers Dance Orchestra (5302-2)

AN ORANGE GROVE IN CALIFORNIA

1058 Master Melody Makers (no visible matrix; however, see next entry)

ROSES OF PICARDY

Manhattan Musicians (5276-2)

SITTIN' IN A CORNER

1057/1058 An unusual variation of the above, containing the B side of 1057 and A side of 1058, both on label and record.

Music Lovers Dance Orchestra (5302-2)

AN ORANGE GROVE IN CALIFORNIA

Master Melody Makers (5280-3)

Roses of Picardy

1059 Master Melody Makers (no visible matrix)(5345?)
LINGER AWHILE
N.M.L. Dance Orchestra (no visible matrix)

1060 Manhattan Musicians (5295-4)
MAMMA LOVES PAPA, PAPA LOVES MAMMA (with vocal)
David Harris and Thos. Edwards (5327-1)
I'M SITTING PRETTY IN A PRETTY LITTLE CITY

1061 Music Lovers Dance Orchestra (1581-1)
SLEEP
Music Lovers Dance Orchestra (5347-2)
CIELITO LINDO (BEAUTIFUL HEAVEN)

1062 Hugh Donovan (5356-1)
IF THE REST OF THE WORLD DON'T WANT YOU
Jos. Elliott (5353-2)
I'M GOING SOUTH

1063 David Harris (5344-2)
YOU'RE IN KENTUCKY, SURE AS YOU'RE BORN
Hugh Donovan (5334-2)
WHEN LIGHTS ARE LOW

1064 Joe White (5373-1, -2)
SO I TOOK THE $50,000
David Harris (5330-1)
STAY HOME, LITTLE GIRL, STAY HOME

MATRIX NOTES

1064 (5373) on Banner 1312 as Billy West (Billy Jones)
1064 (5330) on Banner 1288 by Vernon Dalhart

Again we ask you to check any of those NMLs that may be floating around in your collection. You just may have something that we know nothing about. Let's share this information. Any comments, additions, etc. please send to Dave Cotter, 225 Brookside Ave., Santa Cruz, Calif. 95060....and stay tuned for part eight of this continuing series....the Band and Concert Series.

I AM THE TALKING MACHINE

I am the talking machine.

The jewels of music are the treasures I bring you.

From my heart comes the tenderest lullaby - the sacred hymn - the melody of romance - the song of songs.

To the young I tell of happiness, of fondest longings, of hopes fulfilled and thrilling conquest.

To the old I give comfort and sweet contentment and golden hours, in which the memories of the past arise through the mists of enchantment.

The noblest impulses awaken at my call.

Inspiration, the passion to achieve and the thrill of Ambition are born of the dreams that my minstrelsy weaves.

I am the heart's desire - the faithful companion of all mankind. Castle and cabin resound with my singing.

My voice enthralls the ruler in the palace and delights the pioneer in the depths of the wilderness - for it is the voice of Friendship.

Children claim me as their comrade, because of the goodness and gladness and laughter I instill in their hearts.

I am the herald of enlightenment, I bear the torch of learning and lead the way to Culture.

My message is Cheerfulness, Entertainment and Education.

I am your obedient servant - The Talking Machine.

Illustration

Our illustration for this issue comes from the December, 1927 Post. It's an advertisement for the rare Edison machine and was undoubtedly one of Edison's last phonograph advertisements in a major magazine. Wouldn't you like to hear "Close-Up Music" this Christmas?

Ordinary

Phonograph Music

This visualizes how music from Rolfe's Orchestra would sound++if played on an ordinary phonograph++far-away...formless...a mere outline of thin sound, unshaded and incomplete.

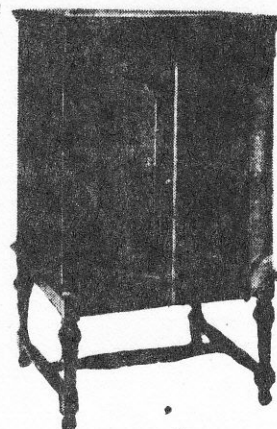

HEAR A "CLOSE-UP" of B. A. ROLFE

and his Palais d'Or Orchestra

Now—music "close-up", vibrant, life-like—like a "close-up" in the movies! Now—an entirely new dimension to re-created music—Thomas A. Edison's astounding new achievement—The Edisonic. Hear Rolfe and his Palais d'Or Orchestra on the Edisonic! In that chuckling jazz, the hot sax seems at your shoulder, the silvery piano notes have a sprightly individuality—each instrument, each tone, stands out with cameo-like precision. No shuffle of dancing feet can drown "close-up" music... But why read about the Edisonic when your Edison dealer will be glad to demonstrate it? Determine this Christmas to give your family the joy of hearing Edisonic music whenever they like, as long as they like, without even the annoyance of changing a needle. Send for the remarkable Tonoscope Demonstration, free. Thomas A. Edison, Inc., Orange, New Jersey.

Today's gift for many tomorrows

Edisonic Close-Up Music

This visualizes how Rolfe's Orchestra sounds on the new Edisonic. The music, like this picture, is close-up, complete. There is full detail... form to every sound. There is depth, perspective, beauty... Rolfe and his merry men actually seem present in your home!

B. A. Rolfe, world's greatest trumpet virtuoso, and his Palais d'Or Orchestra.

Milford Fargo, Curator of the Ada Jones Memorial collection said, "It's like shopping in a museum." He was referring to THE OLDE TYME MUSIC SCENE, 915 Main St. in Boonton, N.J. The store is patterned after a 1926 Victrola store with many machines in separate cubicles. The Victor section currently has (Sept.) two R's, a Monarch, a Schoolhouse, a IV (first internal horn), a V, and a few offbeat machines.

Edison room contains about four upright Diamond Discs, an Adams C-450 hand decorated console and about 5,000 great condition blue amberols and black wax, plus some brown wax, and Indestructibles. In addition they have needles, record jackets, sleeves, dusters, tins, literature such as the Diamond Disc 50,000 book, Tinfoil to Stereo, repair manuals, Index cards.

The next room houses thousands of 78's broken down into artists or categories ie: Big Band, Swing, Jazz, Piano, Comedy, Latin, Labels, Orthophonics. Prices are moderate and they ship. With one of the owners, Don Donahue being an active jazz musician, it's logical that they stock a great deal of out-of-print jazz records. Add to this 45's and their slogan EVERYTHING FROM EDISON TO ELVIS takes on meaning. Their T-Shirts even carry out the motif.

The store is open Wed. through Sunday 10-5, with Friday and Sunday openings at 12. Phone 201-335-5040. Easy to reach off of interstate 80, north on 287.

Wanted: Irish instrumental cylinders and 78's, also all phonograph advertising items. Steve Ramm, 5 Morningside Drive, Trenton, N.J. 08618.
